ABSTRACT

PFAS are a large family of substances that have been under scrutiny for a long period and are increasingly subject to several requirements. During this session, you will first hear about the latest developments on the proposal for a Universal Restriction on PFAS under REACH, which also affects PFAS in any type of equipment.

Emerging monitoring and reporting obligations under separate legislations will also be touched upon. Finally, already completed and ongoing studies focusing on the uses of PFAS in industrial equipment in chemical plants will be presented.
